Big ship navigational facilities in a 5-tonner

ECHO-SOUNDING BY HECTA, as supplied to R.N.L.I. This instrument indicates depth by pointer and scale, a method which we developed in 1958–59. it has two range scales. 2–32 ft. and 2–32 fms. (Model A); 2–52 ft. and 2–52 fms. (Model B). it is supplied with "twin" transducers for use in deep-keeled sailing yachts

DIRECTION-FINDING, CONSOL and weather reports by HOMER & HERON. The HOMER receiver covers all frequencies between 150 and 4100 kc/s, and is exceptionally sensitive on the radio-beacon bands. HERON is a hand-held D.F. aerial, embodying a special "Sestrel" compass with magnifier, which gives D.F. bearings of high accuracy without reference to ship's head. The helmsman's error and heeling error are thus avoided

SPEED BY HERMES, an electronic instrument of very high accuracy which gives a steady indication even in breaking seas. Model A has two speed ranges, 0–5 and 0–10 knots; Model B is calibrated from 0–30 knots in one range

DISTANCE AND SPEED BY HARRIER, an electronic log giving distance run in steps of 1/100 nautical miles and speed in two ranges, 0–5 and 0–10 knots (Model A); 0–10 and 0–20 (Model B)

...with CIBA glues

No longer is the life of a hull dictated by the fastenings: synthetic resin glues have put an end to that. An all-glued boat is inherently free from nail sickness and modern glues have made possible constructional techniques that eliminate caulking and other periodical chores. CIBA glues withstand water, damp, drying-out, insect attack, bacterial action and the many other causes of deterioration leading to joint failure. These glues have been proved in countless boats in use all over the world—from the polar ice cap to the tropics.
Further information on CIBA glues for boat-building will be sent gladly on request.

AEROLITE 300 and 306
For wood hulls and wood fittings of every type. Gap-filling and used cold. Aerolite 300 in liquid form for the boat-builder. Aerolite 306 in powder form for amateur and small scale use, including repairs.

AERODUX 185 and 500
Resorcinol glues conforming to BS 1204 type WBP. Also particularly suitable for constructing laminated structural members.

ARALDITE
The epoxy resin for bonding materials of similar and dissimilar nature that cannot be joined by other methods. Widely used for bonding components of reinforced glass fibre hulls and superstructures.

Aerolite, Aerodux and Araldite are registered trademarks.

Aerolite and Aerodux are accepted by Lloyds Register of Shipping for gluing wood constructional members in classed yachts.
